

FINTECH BY THE NUMBERS

THE BIG GUYS

"In the next 10 years, banking as we know it is set to change forever."

- Moneywise

Here's how Canada's big banks are making sure they don't get left behind.

RBC

In April, RBC joined forces with the University of Toronto to create ONRamp, a new collaborative workspace for students and entrepreneurs focused on innovative commercial ideas.

Scotiabank

Scotiabank is getting in on the ground floor with Digital Factory, their own in-house FinTech incubator.

TD Bank

TD is investing in Communitech, snapping up Waterloo's tech talent to help them keep innovating. They're also investing in cryptocurrencies.

BMO

Bank of Montreal is investing in Ryerson University's DMZ. This keeps them on top of FinTech startups from around the world, so they always know what's new.

CONSUMERS OF FINTECH IN TORONTO

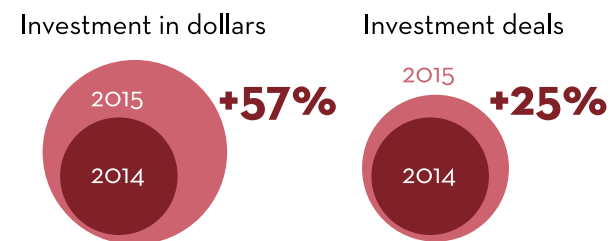

"You don't normally think of City Hall as a place of innovation, and we have to change that. I'm trying to change that with a team of people including public servants and elected representatives."

- Mayor John Tory
